HC Music Department to Host Concert

The Howard College Music Department will be hosting a concert open to the public on Thursday, November 19, 2009 at 6:30 pm. The concert, being held at the Florence T. Hall Studio Theatre in the Hall Center for the Arts, will showcase the music students in the instrumental and vocal ensembles.

Designed to appeal to a wide range of audiences, the concert will be showcasing traditional Christmas music as well as the Howard College Alma Mater and other more popular tunes such as Sing, Sing, Sing from the forties and R.O.C.K. in the U.S.A.

"We have put together a great concert for our community with a wide variety of music and we are excited about the performance," said Eddie Vandewalker, Associate Professor and new director in the Music Department. "The students have put in a tremendous amount of work while preparing for this and I'm certain the audience will have a great time."

The one night only toe tapping event is free of charge to the public but seating is limited. Come early to get your spot and enjoy a music filled evening courtesy of the Howard College Music Department.
